Terminal Tracing

- Do not miss your LFD (last free day) at the port terminal.
- Do not make your staff spend much of their time on visiting carrier web portals to trace the containers.

TruckDestino runs its tech wheel several times a day and automatically pulls container availability data from the port terminals, providing you accurate alerts on when your container becomes available for pick up. No web surfing, no tedious searching, instead Dispatch smart with TruckDestino.

Plan a Trip
